Hungary the Land of Waters

Without any doubt, water is more than just a fluid: it's life, tranquility and nevertheless a peace of mind - and Hungary is the Land of Waters.

Here in Hungary, I have discovered a country that is full of water, the time and space that I get alone gives me clarity of thought, time to focus and refocus. The color of Lake Balaton... and it's just incredible... Everybody that I've met wanted to share Hungary with me...

So do we! Let us invite you to see further wonders of our magnificent country, which you can see in the following video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xGNkOhMJw0s>

Hungary waits for you

Be sure I will be back with you some day, when the winds have chased the rain away.

Rest assured the wonders of Hungary will wait for you until it is safe to travel again. In the meantime, check out how much we Hungarians are looking forward to rediscover our hidden gems. Staying home today means travelling tomorrow!

Virtual tour at the House of Parliament

The building of Hungary's law-making body, the House of Parliament, is rightly considered among the most beautiful parliament buildings in the world. Selected as a World Heritage site as a central element in the Danube panorama in 2011, the edifice is not only an invaluable treasure, but also the pride of the nation. It provides a home for the legislature, a place of safekeeping for the Hungarian Holy Crown, and a workplace both for the 199 Members of Parliament and for the nearly 600 people who assist them.

Even though, the descriptions of the virtual tour are currently only available in Hungarian, it really worth visiting, thus you can see our stunning Parliament from the inside.
